

iTech Auction Script v6.83

Description:

An online auction is an auction which is held over the internet. Online auctions come in many different formats, but most popularly they are ascending English auctions, descending Dutch auctions, first-price sealed-bid or sometimes even a combination of multiple auctions, taking elements of one and forging them with another. The scope and reach of these auctions have been propelled by the Internet to a level beyond what the initial purveyors had anticipated. This is mainly because online auctions break down and remove the physical limitations of traditional auctions such as presence, time, space, and a small target audience. Now a day's online bidding portal has gained much popularity. It is a real-time platform for buyers and seller where they can buy and sell anything as per their industry.
